

Rayners Now Bosch Car Service

RAYNER DIESEL SERVICES

are one of Newbury's most established and highly regarded garages. First appointed as the local agent for Bosch in 1983, directors, brothers, Kevin and Rob Haynes have built their reputation on quality workmanship, a fair and honest price structure, repeat business and personal recommendations.

Their reputation is further endorsed by the garage trade throughout the surrounding area. Other local garages regard Rayner Diesel Services as a centre of excellence in modern car technologies - particularly diesel technology - and regularly use their specialist services.

"We're very pleased to have been a partner of Bosch for the past 28 years," says Kevin. "We are delighted that due to Rayners' recent investments & expansions, we are now part of the Bosch Car Service Network". This gives many noteworthy benefits to customers: the reassurance of OFT codes of practice, technicians trained to a high standard, use of the latest technologies, guarantee of quality parts and professional & efficient service.

Bosch whose products can be found in every leading make of car in the world has developed a range of garage equipment that is regarded as the best in the industry. This covers all the main areas of garage activity, including engine diagnosis, emissions testing, and the servicing of air conditioning systems. Kevin and Rob Haynes have invested heavily in this equipment and training enabling them to carry out work on any make or model of car or light commercial vehicle.

Their state-of-the-art diagnostic equipment can quickly check out the condition of a vehicle and identify any running faults, high emission levels, problems with airbag systems, electrical or braking system faults, and air conditioning malfunctions.

On new cars the company can carry out routine servicing in line with the manufacturer's recommendations and without compromising the warranty terms, thanks to changes in EU law. This gives owners the choice to have their vehicle serviced by Rayner Diesel Services at much lower cost than a major franchised garage.
